SEPTEMBER 2016

And the Winners are...

On Wednesday, September 7th in Portland, OR, Oregon Home magazine held their first ever Structure + Style statewide awards contest. This event marks the path to a much greater vision for the home industry and our role as the leading statewide shelter magazine.

After the classic mingling, networking and imbibing in Oregon Home fashion, attendees were ushered into the grand auditorium space of Revolution Hall. Editor, Snow Blackwood spoke of her vision of the magazine and of this event as she expressed her feelings on the word “home” and what it means to preserve and identify the unique Oregon home aesthetic that is so sought after right now—and not just in Oregon—but across the nation and even the world.

Blackwood aims to evoke the “feeling of home” in each issue with added content on food and local art and by covering projects that are unique to Oregon with a focus on the architect, the designer, the builders and the remodelers behind each project. The excitement in the room built as Steve Frazier of Contract Furnishings Mart announced the nominees and the winners. We raise our glasses to all of you who attended the first awards event and to those of you we see next year!

Interior Design or Architectural Design, Bath Winner: Ash Pierce Design LLC

This circa 1985 master bath began as a collection of three small rooms (with three doors!) and a secret passage through the attic. When completed, this master bath was utterly unrecognizable. Creating one large space and incorporating the awkward attic area allowed the size of the room to increase significantly, creating a true master bath retreat.
