

Get Away From It All in a Glamper

A glammed-up camper can transport you to a happy place, whether in your yard or on the highway

May 29, 2016

Whether you think of it as a chic and cheap beach house, a vacation home on wheels or a personal retreat space, there's a lot to be said for springing for your own glammed-up camper ("glamper"). Shed your preconceptions and consider the appeal of a new or renovated vintage camper tailored to meet your traveling or staycationing needs.

Retro color. With a budget-minded approach and a major love of color, the owners of the 1967 Travel Trailer seen above and below transformed it into a glamper perfect for weekend trips. The ceiling boasts cotton-candy-pink glitter paint, and the original range and hood were custom painted aqua. Retro curtains in a diner-style eating nook paired with vintage details (hello, lava lamp!) complete the picture.

